WeRateDogs is a popular twitter page where Dogs pictures are posted, the dogs get rated and funny comments about the dogs are made. The picture of the dogs posted are mostly collected from follower's submission. The ratings of WeRateDogs is not the regular type of rating this is because the rating denominator is 10 but the rating it normally get is above 10 this is because of the meme ‘they are good dog brent’.

The site is really popular amongst dog lovers round the world as a result they have a large pool of data generated from their posts.

From the data analyse the dog breed that seem to be most liked is the Golden Retriever dog which was the dog with the most likes and retweet count. The charts can be seen below

Top 20 breed of dogs by number of retweets and likes

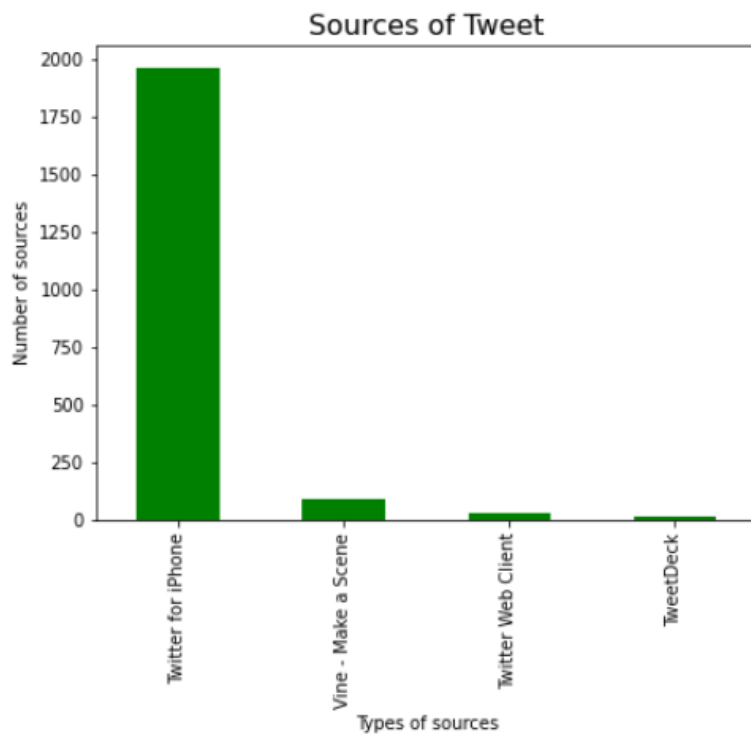

The dog stage which showed as the most rated is the Pupper dog stage and this could imply that people have an affection for smaller dogs especially when it comes to rating them. The chart of the different dog stages can be seen below:

There are popular names owners use to name their dogs which can be seen in the chart below:

Also the source of the tweet is mostly from Iphone users though there is no enough info to know their location and the reason for the sources being from Iphone users.

There are a whole lot of insights that can be derived from this WeRateDog Dataset but for the process of learning it's best to work with a limited number of analysis and visualizations.
